High Bridge Camp Meeting.

The devil effected a wonderful compromise in his favor some years ago, when he in his adroitness induced the Methodists to have an annual meeting at High Bridge and call it a "religious gathering." It was bad at first and "went to the worst," when as we all know, the denomination recognized the fact that more evil than good was being accomplished there and at a sacrifice sold out to a private party, who is running things wide open, with a kind of religious flavor; but holy Moses! what a crowd gathers there on a Sabbath day! 'Tis true there is preaching in one part of the grounds and Sunday I heard the trained choir singing, "It's the old time religion that must save," but every vice in the catalogue was being practiced then and at that particular time all over the territory comprising the camp grounds, rivaling in wickedness ancient Sodom. A steamboat, with a floating bar room, was majestically riding the non-turbulent waters of Kentucky River underneath the famous bridge, with its brass band keeping up a racket sufficient to draw sinners and suckers from the hill top by the thousands. To stand on the bridge and observe the surging sea of human life descend the declivity and ascend was a picture somewhat emblematic of what is to come—people going heavenward and hellward, with the latter locality catching the greater portion of the crowd. The bushes surrounding the bridge and covering the rugged cliffs apparently afford opportunity for practices too immoral to mention. It is a stain on the decency and laws of Kentucky that High Bridge camp meeting is allowed to annually draw crowds under the guise of a religious gathering. It is true that the crowds are not as large on Sundays by 2,000 or 3,000 as they used to be, but beyond the remotest possibility of a reasonable doubt, there should be some way of shutting off this camp meeting money making scheme that evidently leads to the broad road and everlasting destruction.

I am told that pistols by the dozen were repeatedly drawn in the floating bar room (a large boat, the "Falls City," that came up from Louisville Sunday morning) and that bloodshed by the wholesale was only narrowly averted by the opportune interposition of friends and by-standers.

SHREWS.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

—D. N. Cull, a prominent attorney of Barbourville, is dead. He leaves a wife and two daughters.

—Pope Hawkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hawkins, died at Corbin Friday night and was buried at Hustonville, Sunday morning. His disease was typhoid fever, from which he suffered two or three weeks. He was 19 years of age and was a good and steady boy, much thought of by his employers, the Southern News Co. His death is a severe blow on his parents, who have many sympathizers in their affliction.

—Monticello is to have a bank on Jan. 1.

—It takes 12 tea plants to produce one pound of tea.

—Bears have invaded Finland in such numbers that troops have been sent to kill them.

—During the last year, 616 wooden and 48 iron and steel vessels were built in the U. S.

—The brain of ant is larger in proportion to its size than that of any other known creature.

—In France a doctor's claim on the estate of a deceased patient has precedence over all others.

—A woman in Maysville, N. Y., recently presented her husband with a fourth set of twins.

—Two guards were killed in the Tennessee mines by revolving convicts. An infernal machine did it.

—There were 849 vessels built and officially numbered in this country during the past fiscal year.

—In June of this year 16,000,000 children were found to be enrolled in the schools of the United States.

—The Baldwin locomotive works has just turned out a mogul engine weighing 76 tons. It is said to be the largest of its kind in the world.

—A Boston theatre, as a hot weather advertisement, served ice cream to its matinee patrons, and of the 450 spoons passed out with the cream on a given day only 16 were returned.

—Forest fires in Wisconsin are extending rapidly in every direction. Many lives have been lost. Between 15 and 25 residents of Phillips were either burned, or drowned in the lake in which they sought to take refuge. The northern part of the State is a sea of flames and the property loss can not be estimated. The refugees are beginning to reach the large cities, but the fate of many is in doubt. Railroad trestles are burned and relief is impossible. Five hundred women and children from Phillips are homeless in the woods and can not be reached. At Mason the loss is placed at $1,000,000.

CRAB ORCHARD.

—Crab Orchard is noted for its blackberries this season, at least. Mrs. Newland informs the writer that there has been over 150 buckets shipped from her office, but the season is about over.

—The hop at Crab Orchard Springs was rather a failure on account of a dis-appointment in the music, but Manager Hofmann has now made arrangements to have good music and will give a hop every Thursday night from now on until the close of the season.

—The church dedication and district conference, which was held at the new church in Preachersville the latter part of the week, was well attended and brought a number of preachers to that place from all points in Kentucky. It seems that Preachersville from its name would be a very appropriate place for preachers to congregate.

—Miss Maud Pettus and her guest Miss Campbell, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Dillion at Livingston. Miss Phillips, of Lancaster, is a guest of Miss Hallie Edmiston. Miss Alice Moore has gone to Lancaster to spend a week with Miss Myrtle Wilde. Mr. Jas. Fish, wife and daughters, spent Saturday among Crab Orchard friends.

—Mrs. Alice Newland visited Mr. and Mrs. Dr. Cooper, at Livingston, Saturday and Sunday and attended the supper given for the benefit of the new Christian church at that place. She reports a nice time and a gain to the church of about $35. Mrs. Cooper returned to Crab Orchard with Mrs. Newland to visit her father, Mr. C. A. Redd.

—Dr. Browning, of Indianapolis, visited Mr. and Mrs. Gus Hofmann the past week. Mr. Jas. Chadwick has another daughter at his house to keep Eddie Bailey company. Mrs. W. E. Perkins is quite ill. Mr. Felix Myers is confined to his bed with a complication of diseases. Mr. John Henry, of Knoxville, is spending a few days with his wife and baby at her mother's, Mrs. W. F. Abrahams. Miss Lillias Buchanan will return to Knoxville with Mr. Henry, Wednesday. Mrs. Walter Dutton, after a pleasant visit to her sister, Mrs. Alice Newland, returned to her home in Indianapolis, Friday, much improved in health. Mrs. W. A. Beazley is visiting her grand mother near Bee Lick.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

—The St. Paul Episcopal church, Louisville, will be rebuilt at a cost of $500,000.

—Rev. G. W. Gelvin, of Patriot, Ind., has been suspended from his church. He ran away with a brother minister's wife.

—Rev. Mr. McClure, of Irvine, preached at the Methodist church and at the union services at the Baptist church last Sunday.

—At Creelsboro last week Elds. Z. T. Williams and Ira M. Boswell closed a meeting with 16 additions to the church.

—Columbia Spectator.

—Cardinal Ledochowski, prefect of the congregation of the Propaganda Fide, Rome, and one of the foremost men of the Catholic church, is dead.

—Elder V. W. Dorris, who came over to preach the funeral sermon of Miss Crow, is holding a meeting at Nicholasville, which had 16 additions to last accounts.

—Rev. E. O. Guerrant has been holding revivals in Perry county the past three weeks. His meeting at mouth of Grape Vine Creek resulted in 35 additions. He is at Hazard this week.

—Woodford Sun.

—Sunday was a big day at the new Methodist church at Preachersville. Dr. Poynter preached and succeeded in securing the $325, balance due on the building. It is said that 1,000 people were present and that all were fed with many baskets left untouched.

—The Missionary Review of the world estimates the total missionary gifts of Christendom for 1893 at $14,713,627, beside one and a half million of dollars raised from the mission field itself. The total missionary force it estimates at 58,148, the greater part of these, of course, being unordained native helpers.

—There are about 1,191 religious papers in the United States. Of these the Baptists have 181, Methodists 173, Roman Catholics 134, Protestant Episcopalians 76, Presbyterians 73, evangelical denominations 71, Lutherans 59, Congregationalists 33, undenominational 216, while the balance is distributed among about a dozen other denominations.

The Weekly Courier-Journal has with drawn its offer of $1,000 to be given to subscribers who could name the hottest day in August, and guess closest to the highest temperature on that day. This action was taken because of the serious interruption of mails, caused by the railroad strike. A simple and liberal guessing contest on the November Congressional Election is now being prepared, and will be announced by the Weekly Courier-Journal shortly.

—Saturday was the hottest day this season in New York City. The mercury was 95° and a number of sunstroke, one fatal, resulted.

HUSTONVILLE.

—Born on the 25th to the wife of H. Wolford Drye a girl. His sobriquet will henceforth be "father" instead of "brother."

—The Teacher's Institute convenes at your town this week, consequently you have our preceptors with you.

—Misses Nannie and Lizzie Read are visiting Misses Jennie and Lucy McKinney. Mr. Mort Rothwell, of Lancaster, is at Mr. Kaufman's.

—The many friends here of Mr. Robert Dunn regretted exceedingly to hear of his sad and sudden demise. Profound sympathy is felt for his bereaved parents in this the hour of affliction. Mr. E. C. Hopper, who was in the wreck, is much better, though he was not seriously hurt.

—Mr. and Mrs. Goldsmith Cook, of Jellico, who have been here several months, have returned home. Mr. Cook is a silversmith by trade and was kept busy during his sojourn. Misses Quick, of Anderson, Ind., are visiting Miss Mary Lusk at "Hycation." Miss Miranda Tucker and brother, Sam, spent several days with the Misses Yowell.

—Mr. J. G. Weatherford and family have returned home. As we walk down the corridor of time, we realize each day, we lost one of our best citizens when this move was made. Miss Kate Baughman, Prof. Thomson, wife and daughter, have returned from Russell Springs, looking hale and hearty. Miss Helen Reid is visiting relatives in Stanford. Mrs. R. J. Lyles returned home Monday.

—Mr. Will King, who has been sick, is out again. Mr. Wm. Price and Dr. Fayette Dunlap were up from Danville to see Mr. J. W. Hocker, whose improvement is anything but rapid. Mr. Gilbert Smiley, while hauling oats for Mr. Sam Reid, fell from the wagon on a ledge of rock and for awhile looked as if his condition was serious. Medical aid was secured and at this writing he is better. Mrs. Helen Huffman and Melbie Hopper are thinking of going to Paris next year. Should they go Hustonville's loss will be Paris' gain. Melbie is a general favorite here; also a fine musician.

Following a Friend's Advice.

"Wouldn't it be a good idea," said the disinterested friend, "to put a high grade bicycle in your window and mark it $50 or some such price? You'd lose some money on it, of course, but look at the advertising you would get out of it. Everybody in town would be talking about it inside of 24 hours, and your store would get a reputation for selling good machines cheap that would be worth hundreds of dollars to you."

"That's not a bad scheme," said the bicycle dealer after thinking it over. "John," he called out to one of the boys, "put that Greased Lightning racer in the front window and mark it $50."

"But"—

"Never mind arguing the matter. I know what I'm doing."

The Greased Lightning racer was placed conspicuously in the show window with the $50 tag appended.

"Now," said the disinterested friend, "that looks something like it. You'll see a crowd gathering there inside of five minutes. By the way, you may just consider that machine sold. I'll take it off your hands. But I'm no hog," he added cheerfully. "I'll let it stay in your window till tomorrow morning."

"Wasn't that rather an unhandsome trick?" asked the silent partner after the disinterested friend had gone away. "No," reflected the dealer. "That machine has been on hand two years, but it's worth every cent of $47.50."—Chicago Tribune.

No Difference.

"If," said an old schoolmaster to a visitor, "certain pupils used half as much ingenuity and application in finding out facts as they do in finding out ways to be wrong and excuses for them, they would become excellent scholars. There's Tinkins, now, gazing out of the window. He never cares to learn anything, but he is always ready with a more or less ingenious blunder. Let's try him."

"Tinkins!" exclaimed the teacher.

"Yes, sir."

"Gather in your eyes and your wits from the outer empyrean for a moment and tell us what is the difference between the meaning of the word 'granite' and that of the word 'pomegranate.'"

"No difference, sir."

"Then why do we sometimes say 'granite' and sometimes 'pomegranate.'"

"When we are in a hurry, sir, we say colloquially 'granite,' but if we have plenty of time we take pains to say 'pomegranate.'"

"Let me compliment you on the ingenuity of your answer, Tinkins. Now you may go and look up the definitions of those two words in the unabridged and write down each definition for me 10 times. The class in rhetoric will return to their seats."—Youth's Companion.

—The United States Express Company sent every employee of the company in Chicago a $10 bill and a letter of appreciation of work done during the strike.

—The nomination of Paynter for the appellate judgeship will occasion a special election for his successor in Congress, and Hon. Garrett S. Wall, of Maysville, is anxious for the honor.

Lincoln County Teachers' Institute.

The Teachers' Institute was called to order at 10 A. M. yesterday by Supt. W. F. McClary, who after a short talk to the teachers, introduced Prof. W. E. Lumley, principal of Hickman High School, as conductor and who after a short, sensible talk, proceeded to the work.

M. J. Brough was placed in the chair as secretary with Miss Georgia Lewis as assistant. The following teachers were enrolled:

C. H. Holmes, Misses Cettie Thurmond, Alice Surber, Sallie Carter, Mary Kay and Lula Owsley, M. D. Hughes, Misses Jennie West, Bertie Enoch, Effie Wright, Kate Blain, Messrs. C. K. McClure, J. H. Dalton, N. W. Hughes, M. J. Brough, Misses Lydia Lewis and Moore, Mr. J. W. Acton, Miss Virgie White, Mrs. Bettie Eubanks, Scott Anderson, Misses Ella Wright, Della Gooch, Mayme Wright, W. D. Dye, Miss Leah Steger, J. M. Acton, P. W. Carter, Jr., Miss Mattie Sacray, W. R. Swearingen, H. S. Young, Miss Maggie Sacray, Mrs. Mollie Frye, J. H. White, J. W. North, Misses Pearl Phillips, Minnie Estee, Anna Reid, Lizzie Pettus, J. B. Wall, Miss Julia Stagg, G. Singleton, Misses Lula Riffe, Kate Hays, G. W. Curtis, C. M. Young, Wm. Dunavant, Misses Lula Hicks, Margaret Middleton, W. H. Bastin, Misses Ida Williams, Amanda Bishop, Mrs. Ada Greger, Misses Bettie Carter, Attie Hicks, Lou Moore, J. H. Thomas, T. W. Jones, Miss Sallie Green, Mrs. Eddie Cooley, Misses Mary Brough, Mary D. Carter, Florence Beck, Nora Phillips, Ethyl Wright.

The following committee on program was appointed: Miss Jennie West, J. W. White, M. D. Hughes, who made the following report for the day:

Explanation of course of study and daily program, Prof. Lumley.

Science of teaching, H. S. Young and C. H. Holmes.

Penmanship, Miss Mary Kay and M. J. Brough.

Adjourned until 1:30.

Met at the hour designated and Prof. Lumley immediately opened to business on the subject assigned, and showed how many teachers do not teach because they fail to follow the direct line of the program furnished by the State board. Subject being exhausted, the next subject on the program was Science of Teaching, by C. H. Holmes and H. S. Young.

This being disposed of, the next was Penmanship, by Miss Kay and M. J. Brough.

The following teachers came in after roll call: Miss Mayme Wright, J. M. Acton, Jacob Elder, J. A. Hays, W. A. Collier, Misses Lou Moore and Amanda Swearingen.

Adjourned at 4:30 till 8:30 this morning.

Prof. Brough and Miss Georgia Lewis, who were the secretaries last year, were again chosen. They are capital ones and have our thanks for the above official report.

The superintendent and teachers are greatly pleased with Prof. Lumley. His manner is unassuming and he makes no display, but his speeches and explanations of the subjects are models of conciseness and clearness. It will pay our people to hear him and we are asked to invite them to do so.

The teachers assembled at the Institute are an unusually bright and intelligent body of ladies and gentlemen. The standard has been greatly raised in the last few years, until only those who are fully competent are permitted to teach the common schools. Beauty is not an especial requisite of the new law, but if it was a majority of the ladies present would be given first-class certificates by any board of examiners.

—Mrs. Alice Mitchell, of New Albany, Ind., who possessed a spotless reputation, was thrown from a buggy in which she was driving with a married man by the name of Cash Jackson, and killed, thus tragically exposing her infidelity.

—The State election in Alabama is only 10 days off and great interest centers in the result. Democrats are confident of Col. Oates' election, but some apprehension is felt regarding the Legislature. At Birmingham, it is feared, the strike troubles may cause democratic losses, which might result in throwing the lower house to the populists.

—The Japano-Chinese situation is still warlike. The Chinese government has prohibited the exportation of rice or grain, is placing torpedoes in the north channel and the entrance to the Yangtze river and is buying war material freely. Later reports confirm the news of the sinking of the transport Kow Shing, all but 40 of the 2,000 troops being lost.

—The L. & N. has dismissed its suit against the Illinois Central railroad in the Federal court and relinquished its claim to rents from the C. O. & S. W. Co. The effect of the action is to disclaim the ownership of the C. O. & S. W., which the Commonwealth has been fighting through the State courts as a violation of the provisions of the Constitution, which declare that no railroad shall acquire parallel and competing line with a view to setting up a monopoly as a public carrier.

AFTER a splendid speech defending the president against the assaults of Gorman and others, Mr. Vilas withdrew his motion to recede from the 1 of a cent differential duty on sugar, in the interest of harmony, and the tariff bill was sent back to the conference committee, not however, until the republicans had exhausted their dilatory tactics. In voting upon the several motions, all the democrats observed the caucus agreement but Senator Hill, who with the populists voted with the republicans. Up to Saturday night no definite conclusion had been reached by the conferees, but it was understood that the Senatorial members had presented an ultimatum that their bill, so far as the disputed features were concerned, is the only tariff measure that could be passed. The president sent for Mr. Wilson and others of the committee favoring the House bill and had a long conference, the purport of which was not given out. Unless there is an agreement by this evening, a caucus of the House democrats, called by a petition started by Mr. Springer, will be held. The outlook is very much mixed, but it seems to be the general feeling that if nothing better can be done, the Senate bill should be passed and end the suspense and doubt to which the country has been subjected by such traitors as Gorman and his followers. It is stated, though, that Mr. Cleveland will refuse to approve the bill if passed in its present shape. He might do that, however, and not veto it, letting it become a law by default of his action thereon. The bill is a little better than the McKinley bill and anything is preferable to the delay and unrest that its eternal agitation produces. The country is sick and sore over the unfaithfulness and inconsistencies of its so called leaders and demands immediate and final action.

AFTER a two days wrangle in which the Kenton county delegates, which next to the one that usually represents Louisville in conventions, is always the toughest in the State, quarreled and fought among themselves, the convention at Augusta nominated Congressman Thomas H. Paynter for the appellate judgeship in the 6th district. The Covington Commonwealth is in high feather over the defeat of Senator Goebl, who was a candidate, and if half it charged of him is true, the State is to be congratulated that he escaped having such a man on the bench of his highest court. Hon. George Washington was also a candidate, but it seems that unlike his namesake, he is not invincible. The nominee is a man of fair ability and is 43 years old. He is a graduate of Centre College and followed the practice of law till his election to Congress six years ago. The nomination is equivalent to an election and Mr. Paynter is good for $5,000 a year for eight years.

The admission of Utah into the sisterhood of States will necessitate another change in the flags, but it will not be made till July 4th next, the law providing that changes must date from the succeeding day of independence. Seven States in five years is a pretty lively record, which is not liable to be broken, as only New Mexico, Arizona, Oklahoma and Alaska are left to admit. It won't be long before they are all in and then the work of carving new States out of old ones will likely begin. There are too many States, though now, the republicans in their anxiety to secure Senatorial votes, having made States out of Idaho, Wyoming and Montana, neither of which has many more votes than this Congressional district.

How does Bro. Walton admire Richmond's policy of protection?—London Echo. Not much more than he does the republican policy of protection. Richmond printers may need to have outside firms kept away, but so far as we are concerned, we are independent of it, being always able to meet any legitimate competition in work or prices. Free trade and sailors' rights is our motto.

FRIENDS of Gorman controlled the convention in the First Maryland district and voted down a resolution heartily endorsing President Cleveland "for his manly and uncompromising fight for tariff reform," and adopted a substitute, "mildly advocating tariff reform." The audience didn't like that kind of a thing and hissed Gorman's name every time it was mentioned.

The pump contractor says Louisville uses 23,375,000 gallons of water a day, but the statement that she uses as much whisky and beer is no doubt a weak invention of a Cincinnati enemy.

There are said to be 135 saloons in the "Holy City," Jerusalem!

THE worst of the thousands of swindles perpetrated during the boom times is shown in the management of the Coal and Iron Bank at Middleboro. The English put $400,000 of good money in it and it was loaned out by its reckless officers on any kind of wild cat security. Bonds of railroads only on paper and of improvement companies having no existence and other such collateral were taken till $644,000 were loaned and the notes for that amount were sold at auction last week for $1,644. The News says nearly all the notes were given by gentlemen who for various and sundry reasons have sought other climes and are doing the boom act or hoeing corn far, far away. Sic transit gloria mundi.

WAR between China and Japan over Corea seems to be assured, in which event the result can be early foretold. There are enough Chinese to crush out the enemy and never miss the millions of men that might be slain. Russia doesn't like China, however, and might take a hand, in which case England might also be drawn into the fight and ultimately all the nation of the earth might become involved, and the prophecy be fulfilled. So far Japan has the best of the dispute, but she will doubtless realize that he laughs best who laughs last.

IF Col. W. O. Bradley had done as President Harrison wanted him to do—go as minister to Corea, war might have been averted and the king of that country might have remained on his throne. The colonel is a genuine diplomat and we are sure could have arranged things to the satisfaction of all parties. But then we are glad the colonel didn't do it. There are too many of the beathen Chinese and Japanese any way and many millions could be killed and never be missed.

DEBS has succeeded in getting all but the contempt of court case against him before the supreme court, which he hopes will deal more gently with the erring than the lower court. Speaking of this dethroned king, his insincerity and hypocrisy were demonstrated the other day, when after issuing an appeal to the American people to boycott Pullman cars, he rode from Chicago to Terre Haute in one. The fools who followed blindly his reckless orders are slowly awakening to find their idol clay of a very dirty variety.

THE prohibitionists of the Ashland district gave Charley Moore, the Blue-Grass Blade man, the cold shake and nominated Hon. W. C. Owens' law partner, Judge J. B. Fennell, of Georgetown, for Congress. The judge may not be able to hold William up as the awful example, but there is one thing certain, a house divided against itself can not stand, and neither of these is likely to stand the fierce battle of the ballots on the coming day.

A STORY is sent out from Wilkesbarre, Pa., that Mrs. Mary Coyle, who had been totally blind for a number of years, received her sight after anointing her eyes with earth from the grave of her beloved pastor, Father O'Haran. If this is true, which is very unlikely, it is not the first instance of a restoration of sight by the application of earth, but the other was by divine application and before the days of miracles had passed.

THE one-eyed populist governor of South Carolina is law unto himself. He has issued a proclamation declaring that the dispensary law, which the supreme court pronounced unconstitutional, shall go into effect again August 1st, and all liquors but his shall be seized. The more one sees of populist governors the more he is inclined to like dogs.

HAVING used every endeavor to make Col. Breckinridge see the futility of his candidacy for Congress and urged him for the sake of common decency to withdraw, without avail, the Louisville Post now raises the question of his eligibility. It says that he is a non resident, for according to his own sworn statement he has been living in hell for 10 years.

WE regret to know that Editor John S. Van Winkle has decided to give up the Somerset Reporter and go to Knoxville to take a position on the Tribune. He will have a broader field for the exercise of his undoubted talent, but he can never find better and truer friends than those he leaves in old Kentucky.

AND now the dispatches say that Miss Madeline Pollard is ailing herself on the top of Pike's Peak. She must have made a raise, though up to the hour of going to press we had not heard that the colonel had ponied up that $15,000 he owes her and for which execution has issued.

—After being out for six weeks and costing the mine owners, the county and themselves several hundred thousand dollars, the miners' union at Ironwood, Mich., has declared their strike off, and will go back to work.

—At Chicago, Richard Lawrence and Edward Rhodes, the first of the strikers to be punished here for lawlessness growing out of the Pullman boycott, were sentenced to 40 days in jail by Judge Grosscup, of the United States court.

—Dispatches from Nebraska and Central and Western Kansas state that intense heat has prevailed in that region of late. The drouth is playing havoc with the crops. More than half the corn crop in Kansas, it is feared, will be a failure.

—The directors of the A. R. U. have issued a call for a convention to be held at Chicago August 2. Debs, who went to his home in Terre Haute, Ind., says the convention will decide whether the strike is to be extended or declared off.

—Wilbur Hughes was stamped to death at Allensville, Todd county, by Claude Haddock, a merchant, because Hughes had refused to affirm or deny a rumor that he had come to Allensville with a license to marry Haddock's daughter.

—The leading colored ministers of Birmingham have issued an address advising colored voters to support Col. Oates for governor, on the common-sense principle that they must look to a majority of the better class of white citizens for protection.

—The first suit of the many that are to be brought against the city of Chicago by the railroads for damages incurred during the recent strike was filed by the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago at Chicago. It will serve as a test case, and is for $5 damage to a freight car.

—While a party of Lehigh Valley Coal Company officials was making an inspection of a colliery at West Pittston, Pa., the floor of the carriage gave way, and the men were precipitated to the bottom of the shaft. Superintendent Mason and Foreman Wilson were killed and several injured.

—The city of Frankfort levied upon the rolling stock of the Kentucky Midland railroad, leased by the Howe Construction Company, for taxes alleged to be due. No trains were run after the levy was made, and it is not known when traffic will be resumed.

—Mrs. Jacob Eckert, of Dayton, O., went to Cincinnati to seek employment. She was found dead in her room with a knife wound in her throat and a towel twisted tightly about her neck. Her letters to her husband, written just before the act, published in the local papers, are exceedingly pathetic.

NOVELTIES.

An almond dish patterned after an oyster shell and lined with gold, and a spoon whose handle resembles a twig of coral are fashionable table utensils.

Miniature tusks of ivory bound with bands of gold and caught in the center by a slender gold chain form the latest design in link cuff buttons, and a pretty one it is.

The duchess silk girdle, mounted with a hand painted medallion of Psyche on a buckle of silver filigree work, has come forth as an aspirant for summer wear.

The old adage, "Raining pitchforks," has furnished an appropriate design for the decoration of an umbrella handle. In silver deposits are depicted falling pitchforks placed alternately with raindrops along the handle.

One of the daintiest of ladies' chate-laine watches is completely incrustated with white daisies in enamel. The stem is a daisy, and a large daisy covers the center of the dial on the background of blue. The numerals are in etched gold.

NO ENCOURAGEMENT.

And So the Man Who Left Buffalo Moved On.

"My dear man," he began as he stopped a policeman on the Campus Martius the midnight the other night. "I want to ask a great favor of you—a great favor."

"Well, sir?" was the curt reply. "I left Buffalo for Chicago the other day. I have many reasons for believing that I have arrived in Chicago, but yet a peridious doubt insists on entering my mind. Now, then, can you see your way clear to telling me whether I am in Chicago or not?"

"Of course you are not. You are in Detroit!"

"In Detroit? That is a town about half way between Buffalo and Chicago, is it not?"

"Yes, sir."

"Sometimes called the City of Straits?"

"Yes, sir."

"Because it is a town of straight people?"

"What do you want?" queried the officer, leaving the question to take care of itself.

"Queer—very queer! I start from Buffalo for Chicago, and I find myself in Detroit. I walk around town for three hours hunting for my friend Doboy of the police force, and not finding him, a peridious doubt begins to develop itself. I approach you and ask for information, and I find that Chicago and Doboy are still 280 miles farther toward the setting sun. I can't make it out. Can you?"

"No, sir!" stiffly replied the officer.

"Would you call it a case of absent-mindedness?"

"It might be that."

"Or could I have suddenly lost my identity? People do suddenly lose their identity, you know."

"I expect they do."

"Hold! Could I have been in that condition known as inebriated?" anxiously asked the stranger.

"Very likely!" grimly replied the officer. "Is that all you want to know?"

"About all. Stay a moment, however. I spoke of Doboy. He has implicit confidence in me. Should I ask him for a dime with which to?"

"Move on, sir!" interrupted the officer.

"Toward Chicago?"

"Yes, sir, move on!"

"Move on toward Chicago because of Doboy and that dime?"

"Exactly! Move on, or I'll run you in!"

"Very well. I move. I move toward Chicago. I decrease the distance between myself and Doboy. When I finally reach him I shall murmur: 'Doboy, old man, beware of Detroit, the city of the crooked! Beware of a big, overgrown, hard hearted, avaricious, wabbling kneed, red eyed!'"

The officer rushed for him, but his club only beat against a soft, damp shadow of the night.—Detroit Free Press.

An Adult.

A man went into a restaurant the other day and took a seat on a stool. He looked at the bill of fare a minute and then beckoned to the waiter.

"Hay," he said, "gimme some veal."

"What's that, sir?" asked the waiter as he brushed a lot of crumbs into the man's lap and handed him a glass of water in which his thumb was immersed beyond the first joint.

"Gimme some veal."

"Veal?"

"Yes, veal."

The waiter wandered off to the kitchen and held an animated conversation with the cook. Pretty soon he came back and put a plate of dark red meat in front of the customer and began to pay close attention to the electric fan.

The customer turned the meat over curiously with his fork. He inspected it on both sides. Then he said, "Hay, waiter, come here!"

"I asked for veal," said the customer inquiringly.

"Yes."

"This hain't veal. It's roast beef."

"Yes, roast beef."

The waiter turned to walk away.

"Well," he said, "what's roast beef but veal in its second childhood? You gimme a pain."—Buffalo Express.

WHILE other portions of the country are burning up with heat, Stanford is as cool as a cucumber. In fact it is as good a summer resort as one could wish, and the sweltering thousands are invited to come and cool off with us.

A STRANGER stopped at Mr. Sam Embury's Saturday and asked, "Can you tell me where I can buy some horses?" "I have 50 or more and might accommodate you myself," said the dealer. He took him to the lot, the man picked out two in a few minutes. Mr. Embury priced them at $125, and in less time than it takes to set up and print this Mr. Embury had the money and the stranger had the horses and had departed. Suspecting that the money might not be good, the dealer came to town and had the bankers examine it, and they pronounced it at least as good as the horses, which were well sold.

THE Kings Mountain Canning Co. will begin operations Aug. 6. The factory, with a capacity of 2,300 cans a day, is now complete and Supt. Wm. Chesterfield, who was here Friday, tells us that it will employ 135 hands, 90 women and 45 men, whose pay will average 80c daily. The company has 287 acres in tomatoes from which a yield of 80,000 bushels is expected. The crop is heavy and is ripening well. The price established is 20 cents a bushel of 60 pounds and a great many farmers in the section have turned their attention to raising them. An acre will yield 250 bushels, which will bring $50, a much better amount than can be gotten from wheat or corn. The establishment will prove a great blessing to the people of that section.

THE hop given by Mrs. J. E. Portman, B. H. Danks and J. T. Carson at the Opera House Friday night was largely attended and greatly enjoyed. The night was pleasant and all things combined to make the occasion one of exquisite delight. Besides many of our own fair maidens there were present from Lancaster, Misses Ellen Owsley, Pattie Beazley, Bessie and Jennie Burnside; Misses Chastine MacGregor, Bessie and Martha Snyder and Mrs. J. T. Carson, Louisville; Misses Lucy and Mattie Alcorn and Mary Holmes Lusk, Hustonville; Laura and Nellie Quick, Quick City, Ind.; Ella and Dessie Wingate, Woodford; Lillie and Jennie Lyne and Miss Bryant, Lexington, Geneva Highbaugh, Senora.

AN I. J. reporter spent Sunday at Capt. Richards' delightful summer resort, Linnietta Springs, and is more than ever impressed with its numerous advantages. In the first place, the king of bonifaces has the hotel in charge; secondly it is more accessible than any watering place in the country and lastly the greatest variety of mineral waters is found there. Sulphur water, both white and black, and strong enough to remind one of "unfresh" eggs in abundance; epsom water, that will make a pound of salts to three gallons, and chalybeate alum and iron springs are all on the grounds and within a few yards of the hotel. The crowd numbers 40 odd and is as congenial a one as ever assembled. Beaux and belles from several counties are there and with the splendid orchestra on hand all of the time, one does not grow lonely and wish for something to do. A good crowd from Somerset and several from Lebanon are booked for this week and the genial manager thinks that by the last of the week his house will be full. Surely if those who contemplate going to a summer resort will consider Linnietta's advantages it will.

TIM BUCHANAN, the Crab Orchard negro who broke Maggie Owsley's arm with a chair, was sent to jail for 155 days. Tim is a democrat, but it begins to look like he won't be out in time to vote in November.

In Iceland it is a violation of the Divine law to whistle. It should be here. Pope speaks of a man "whistling as he went for want of thought." Our impression is that a man who whistles is not capable of thinking.

W. L. DAWSON has ordered "subject to the action of the democratic party" added to his announcement, as he intended from the first. Everybody understood it that any way, as he is too good a democrat not to be subject to its action.

A DISPATCH from Danville says the notorious Elsie Rowsey and Harrison Devine, one of his pals, made an effort to assassinate Ambrose Carter, a well known farmer of that county, Saturday. Carter had testified against them in court that day and they pursued him. They missed their aim and Carter hid in a corn field. The rascals made their escape.

P. W. GREEN and Tom Ferrill were arrested yesterday on a warrant sworn out by Judge T. L. Shelton charging them with selling whisky at Rowland without license or rather under license illegally granted by the city council. The case was tried in the afternoon before Judge Varnon, Col. W. O. Bradley and W. H. Miller appearing for Shelton, J. B. Paxton for the Commonwealth and Col. Welch for the accused. The only questions for Judge Varnon to decide, were whether the council had the right to grant license without an ordinance and whether it had the right to grant coffee house license. He decided both in the affirmative and discharged the prisoners.

BEHEADED.—A stronger prohibition argument than any of the alleged orators can make, comes from Rowland. Willie Naylor and David Traylor got drunk and made their beds on the railroad track, with the rail for pillows. Both were soon sleeping the sound sleep of the inebriated. A train came along. Traylor awoke in time to save himself, but Naylor awoke in eternity. His head was literally mashed to a pulp and nearly entirely severed from his body, presenting a most ghastly appearance. A coroner's jury was summoned and it returned a verdict in accordance with the facts. Naylor was perhaps 25 years of age, and was quite a shiftless fellow. He leaves two wives, one divorced, but fortunately no children. His death is the awful fate that sometimes befall those who tarry long at the wine cup and will doubtless, and naturally, cut a figure in the approaching prohibition election.

THE corpse of James Kuykendall was brought here on yesterday's train en route to his former home in Garrard. His wife who is a daughter of C. G. Todd, came with it and the scene between her and her aged mother on her arrival here was very affecting. From Mr. C. B. Caldwell, who came along with her, we learn that the deceased had been working for J. H. Smith on his farm near Farmer City, Ill. They fell out about something and Smith discharged him. In the settlement he brought Kuykendall $2 in his debt. Mr. K. decided to return to Kentucky and began to pack his things. Smith threatened to hold them until the $2 was paid and K. offered to let him have his garden for the amount. Smith began to curse him and applied a vulgar epithet when he told him he could not come out in the road and apply it. Without further remark, Smith began to shoot, one of his balls entering K's side and cutting the largest blood vessel to the heart, killing him almost instantly. Smith was arrested and is now in jail without bail.

THE CROWNLESS
MARTYRS OF THE
MARRIAGE RING.

BY E. T. SMITH.

In the latter part of May it rained hard for several successive days and the time hung heavily on Mr. Carter's hands. Closely he watched the leaden sky for a break in its murky breast, but day after day "the low hung clouds dropped their garnered fulness down;" hour after hour the slanting lines of rain beat against the windows with unabated fury and the overcharged gutters foamed and fumed with rage.

"Mr. my! how I long for one more bright, sunny day. How I long for a drink from the poplar spring. How I long—"

Then Mr. Carter sighed as he blushing thought of a crown of golden hair where sunshine was always imprisoned, of rosy lips where the wine of love was so sweetly distilled, and of soft, brown eyes that thrilled with their glances.

"Ah! what would old Ferguson say if he could read my thoughts," said he as he paced, restlessly, across the room.

At last a light spot appeared in the northern sky, a rift of pearl broke through the clouds. The rift grew larger and larger, then suddenly a flood of golden light broke through and the scurrying clouds, affrighted, fled away in folds of filmy mist. A brisk wind then sprang up, shaking from the tresses of the trees sparkling showers of diamonds, and wiping from the wet face of the earth the standing tears.

Early the next morning Mr. Carter started down the road towards Mr. Taylor's.

"I'll just go in sight of the house and then turn back," he said, as he picked his way along the muddy road.

Suddenly, in the bend of the road, he met Mrs. Allyn with a basket on her arm.

"Well, this is an unexpected pleasure. I was just going to walk in sight of the house to see if it hadn't been washed away."

"Oh! no, it is still standing, or at least it was a few minutes ago. We've had an awful rain, enough to have washed it away," she replied as she shifted her basket to the opposite side from Mr. Carter.

"But what are you doing out to-day? Let me have your basket and I'll accompany you, if you do not object."

"No, you can't go, I'm going to see a poor woman and she's too sick to be bothered with company."

"But I'll promise not to bother. I will not go in, but will wait at the gate for you. Is the lady very ill?" Mr. Carter said, as he took the basket.

"She's more starved than sick."

"My! my! that's bad. If you'll permit me I'll light a cigar—smoking is my besetting sin. You walk on and I'll overtake you."

Putting the basket down, he got out a cigar and lit it, then he fumbled in his pockets until he found what he was searching for and slyly concealed it in the basket.

"I've got a crow to pick with you," she remarked to Mr. Carter, as they left the sick woman's house on their return.

"You are not observing professional etiquette, you are interfering with my patients. You thought I would not see that twenty dollar note you put in the basket."

"How do you know I put it in?" asked Mr. Carter trying to look innocent.

"Because it wasn't there when I handed the basket to you and it was there when I emptied the basket. No one else could have put it in."

"Then it must have dropped in when I was hunting for a match."

"But money can't walk! It was not on top of the things in the basket. It was hid under one of the dresses."

"Well, they say money talks. If it can talk I don't see why it can't walk and hide itself. But admitting that I put it in the basket, that is not as reprehensible as it is for you to be plodding through all this mud and water on errands of mercy. Mine was only a passive charity, yours is both passive and active."

"Oh! but I was compelled to come to-day. I am going away to-morrow morning. Got lots of packing and fixing to do, so I came out this morning to make some provision for this sick lady before I left."

"Going away? where to?"

"I'm going to join my folks to-morrow. They will be on the train going to White Sulphur."

"Isn't this very sudden? Why do they go so early? I thought the height of the season was in July and August."

"Yes it is a little sudden, but my folks concluded to go early and rest up before the crowd assembles, so they wrote me to join them to-morrow."

"Well, what's going to become of me now?"

"Oh! Jennie will take care of you."

"Oh! bother Jennie!"

"No, don't bother Jennie but try to console her in my absence." She looked up to see how Mr. Carter was taking it.

His face was dark and gloomy and he was nervously stroking his moustache.

"I don't want to go one bit. I'll have to be dignified and wear trains, receive and be received. I know I shall be bored to death, for the only amusements I shall have, will be dancing and flirting. What will become of all my pretty wild flowers, of my sweet, feathered songsters, of my sighing trees, of my long, delightful walks and of all the invigorating tonic of the glorious air?"

"You'd better ask what will become of poor me," said he lugubriously.

"Oh! I know very well what will become of you. You will be making love to Jennie and will be so glad that I'm out of your way."

"No, you are a bad prophetess. I can tell you what will become of me," said Mr. Carter brightening up, as an idea popped into his head. "I'll be at the White Sulphur! I'll be there too, arrayed in an epiketail coat and patent leather pumps, boring you with my presence, and tearing your trains with my awkward dancing, and—looking daggers at you if you dare to indulge in any flirtations."

"Will you really? Now I'm going to see if you will desert all these glorious surroundings and Jennie to follow poor little me."

"I'm in earnest. As the children say I'll cross my heart on it. I'll be ready to take the train to-morrow."

"No, wait a week before you start. Don't have people gossiping about us. But we are at the gate now. Tell me good-bye and in a week I shall expect you at the White. In one long week."

Mr. Carter dropped off to sleep that night wondering what Ferguson would say when he heard that I was hopping around in a dress coat and patent leathers at White Sulphur.

In a week from that time he was there and the evenings would find him decked out in full evening dress dancing attendance on Mrs. Allyn.

When the hotel began to fill up and Mrs. Allyn's time was taken up with horse back rides and tennis by day and with dancing and rehearsals for private theatricals by night, Mr. Carter began to get bored.

"You look envious of late, you are losing your spirits. What is the matter? Are you sighing to get back to Jennie? I didn't think you would tire of me this soon." She said to him one day, during a promenade on the long portico.

"No, I'm not sighing for Jennie," he replied with an effort at a smile, "society life doesn't suit me. It takes up too much of your time. I hardly ever see you, and when we are together that pop-in-jaw Howard never fails to interrupt us, and to take you away on some frivolous pretext."

"Don't be too hard on poor Mr. Howard. It was ordained that he should bore somebody and I suppose it was predestined that I should be the victim. Now you ought not to let him bore me. You ought to stay by me and prevent him."

"But how can I when he comes and takes you away under my very eyes?"

"When he takes me you ought to follow me. You remember I told you, I didn't want to come here. I knew how it would be, but you know when we are in Rome, we must do as the Romans do. But Mr. Howard's time is nearing an end. Somebody is coming to-morrow morning, and then Mr. Howard's nose will be unjointed."

Last June Dick Crawford brought his 12 months old child, suffering from infantile diarrhoea, to die. It had been weaned at four months old and was sickly everything ran through it like water through a sieve. I gave it the usual treatment with castor oil without benefit. The child kept growing thinner until it weighed but little more than when born or perhaps 10 pounds. I then started the father to giving Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Before one bottle of the remedy had been used, a marked improvement was seen and its continued use cured the child. Its weakness and puny constitution disappeared and it is now a healthy, happy child. The child's life was saved by this Remedy. J. T. Marlow, M. D., Tamarac, Ill. For sale by Dr. S. G. Hocker, Druggist, Stanford.

A Meek Man.

A demure looking little man approached the haughty clerk in a grocer's shop and meekly asked if he had any coffee to sell.

"We have ground coffee," said the young man.

"No other kind?"

"None. This is the best ground coffee on the market."

"But I don't want it." The little man traced up. "I got some sugar here the other day with sand in it, and I don't want coffee with ground in it. You must think I want the earth."—Harlem Life.

A horse kicked H. S. Shafer, of the Freemeyer House, Middleburg, N. Y., on the knee, which laid him up in bed and caused the knee to become stiff. A friend recommended him to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which he did and in two days was able to be around. Mr. Shafer has recommended it to many others and says it is excellent for any kind of a bruise or sprain. The same remedy is also famous for its cures of rheumatism. For sale by Dr. S. G. Hocker, Druggist, Stanford.
